

National Law University and Judicial Academy Corporate Law Journal (NLUCLJ)

CALL FOR PAPERS

Corporate law as an academic discipline also has a great potential for the growth and research in corporate law. Effort should be made to draw attention of the people to consider the corporate as an area of research. This responsibility lies on the academic institutions to draw out different modalities which can develop corporate law as a subject as well as a vibrant discipline of research.

With the above mentioned objectives, The National Law University and Judicial Academy, Assam has proposed to establish a Centre for Advanced Research in Corporate Law (CARCL) which will cater to the activities needed to focus on various aspects of corporate law, especially in the North East. The focus area of the Centre will be to develop Corporate Law as a vibrant academic discipline. The Centre will try to further these programmes and work with different agencies and institutions focus on corporate issues in the northeast region

With the above mentioned objectives, Centre for Advanced Research in Corporate Law (CARCL) invites papers for its maiden issue of National Law University and Judicial Academy Corporate Law Journal (NLUCLJ). Our aim is to take an initiative for research and development in the area of Corporate Law, Policy and governance. The Journal focuses on highlighting upcoming developments, issues and challenges and other aspects affecting the regulation and implementation of various facets of Corporate Law.

All the submitted manuscripts will be put through a strict peer review process by an eminent Editorial Panel of experts in the area.
